THE STORY OF SANDY KELT

The idea of Sandy Kelt was born like many other good ideas - over good food and drink. And from homesickness, which can touch even the strongest of people.

In Sandy's case, an Irishman living in the area wanted to bring a small piece of his homeland here, to sandy shores of Kalajoki. And so Sandy Kelt was created - not just as any pub, but a genuine setting for those longing for the easygoing Irish way of life.

From the very beginning, high-quality and local ingredients have been important to us in Sandy Kelt. Now we've delved even deeper into the food traditions of Kalajoki by pairing the traditional Irish Boxty with the local ingredients of Mojakka (a traditional fish dish).

This too is local food at its best: we finally fulfilled a long-time dream of brewing beer from local barley and water. Beers from Kalajoki Bay Brewing Company are now available either on a perfectly sized tasting board or in a hearty pint. Among them, the smooth Irish Red Ale is crafted especially for Sandy Kelt.

So welcome to join us! In good company food and drink taste even better. Or, as the Irish so aptly put it: "For bird never flew on one wing and neither should you."
